

MONUMENTAL LIBRARY

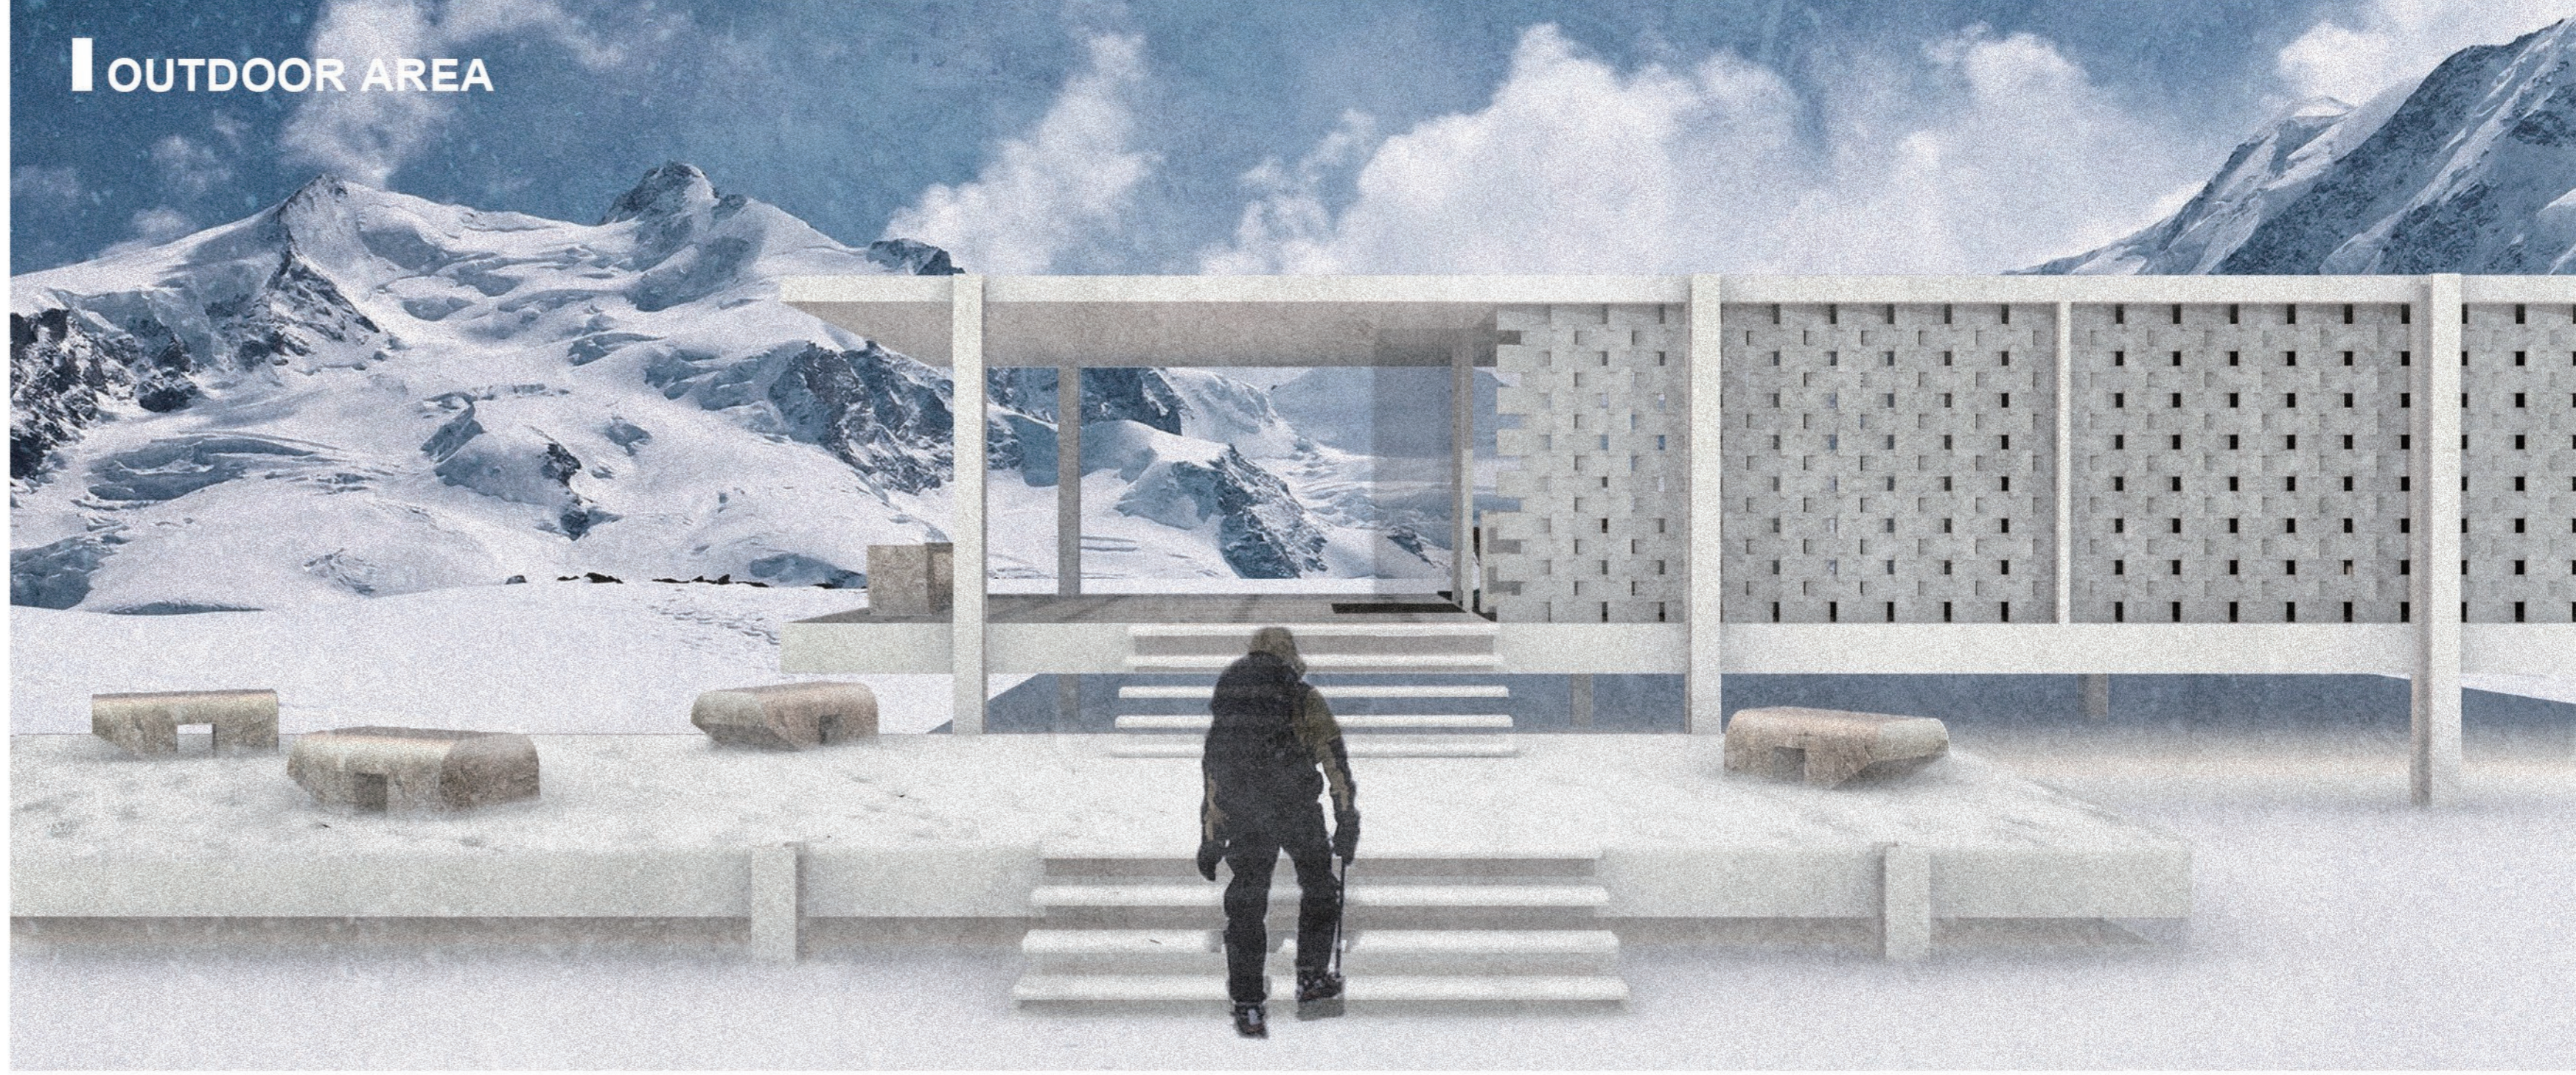

INTERIOR RENOVATION OF FARNSWORTHHOUSE

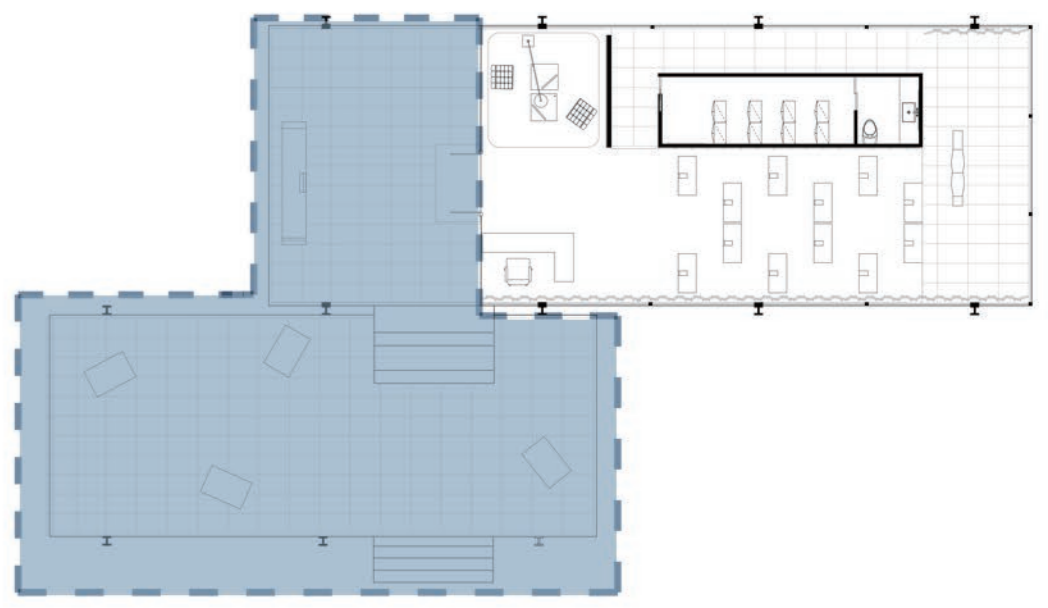

FINISH PLAN

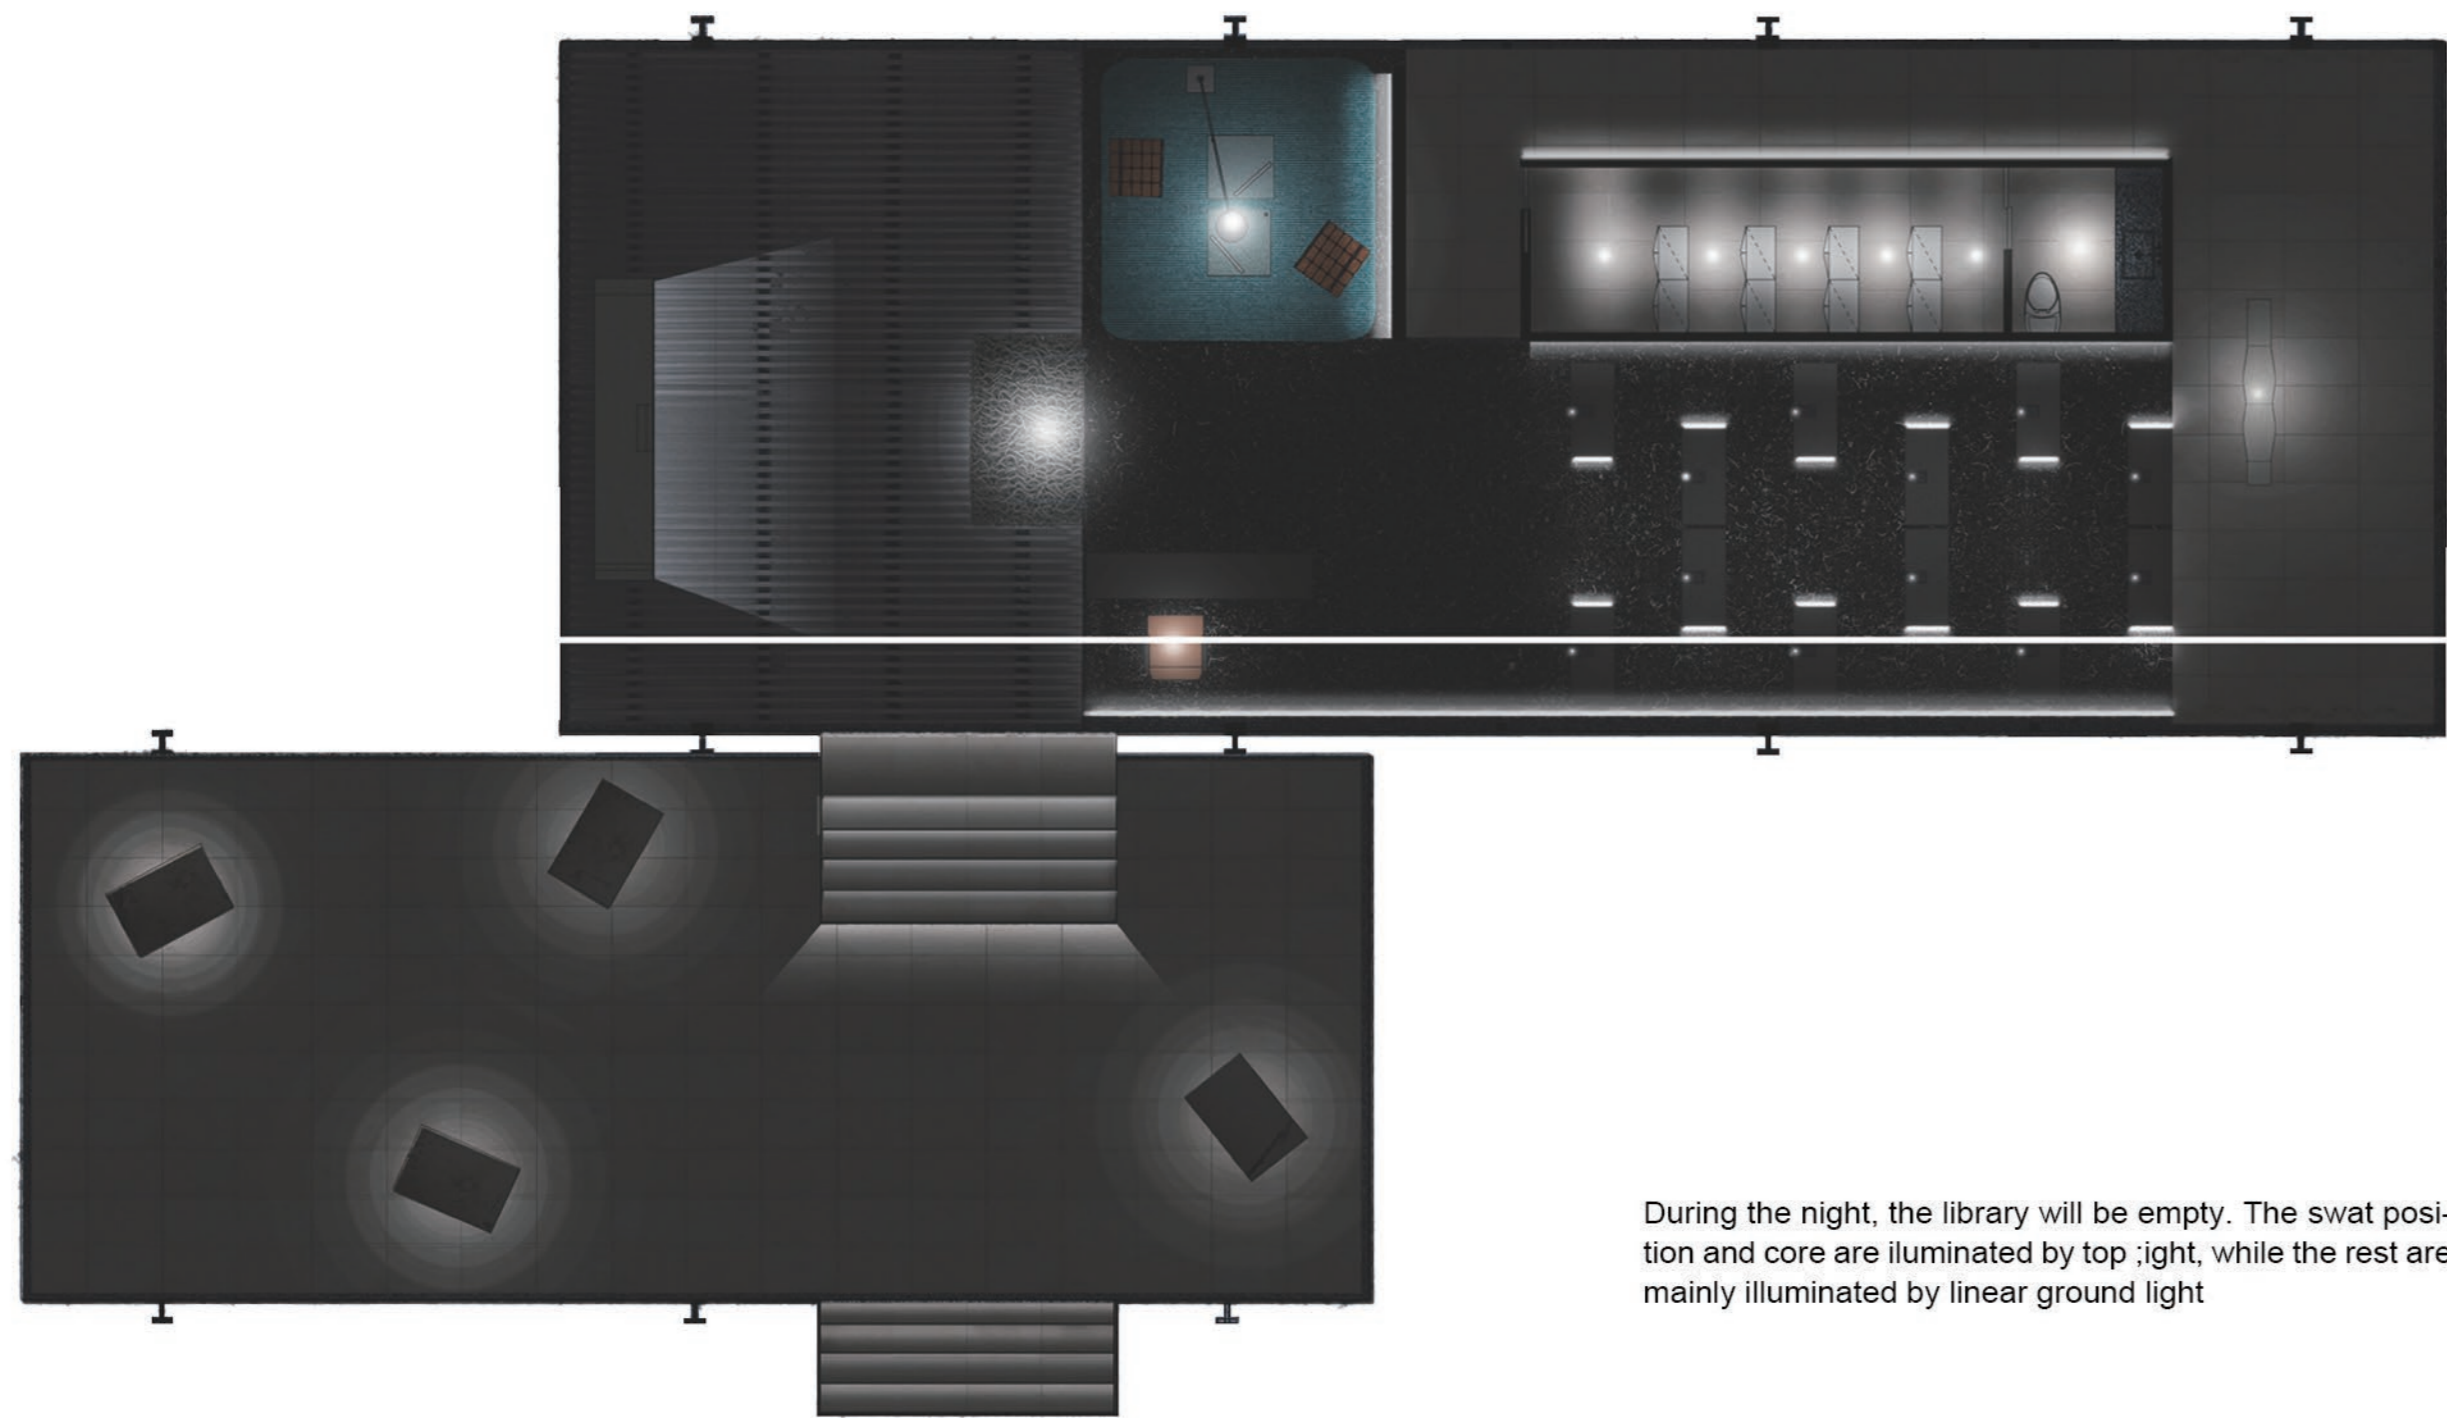

OUTDOOR AREA

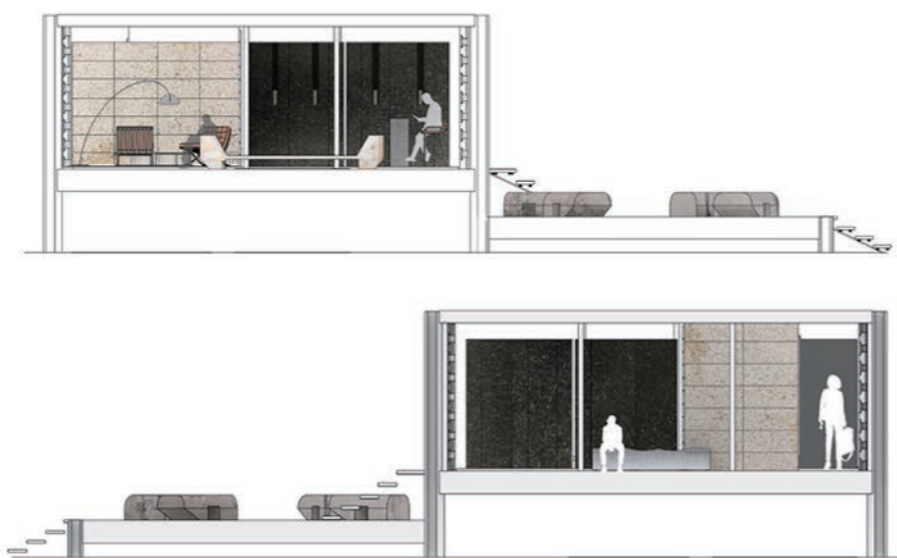

The open platform will cover by snow for a long time, we choose the furniture designed by rick owens with stone finishes, creating a monumental atmosphere for the audience arriving at the library.

LIGHTING PLAN & SECTIONS

During the night, the library will be empty. The swat position and core are illuminated by top light, while the rest are mainly illuminated by linear ground light

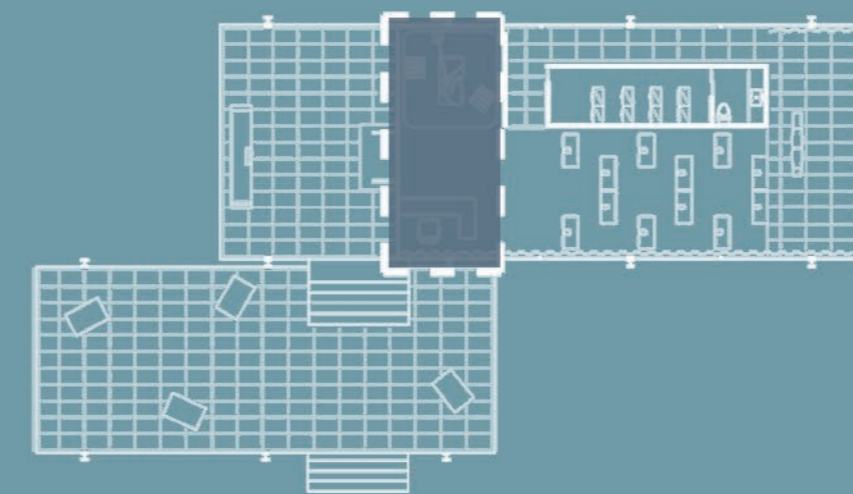

MEDIATE AREA

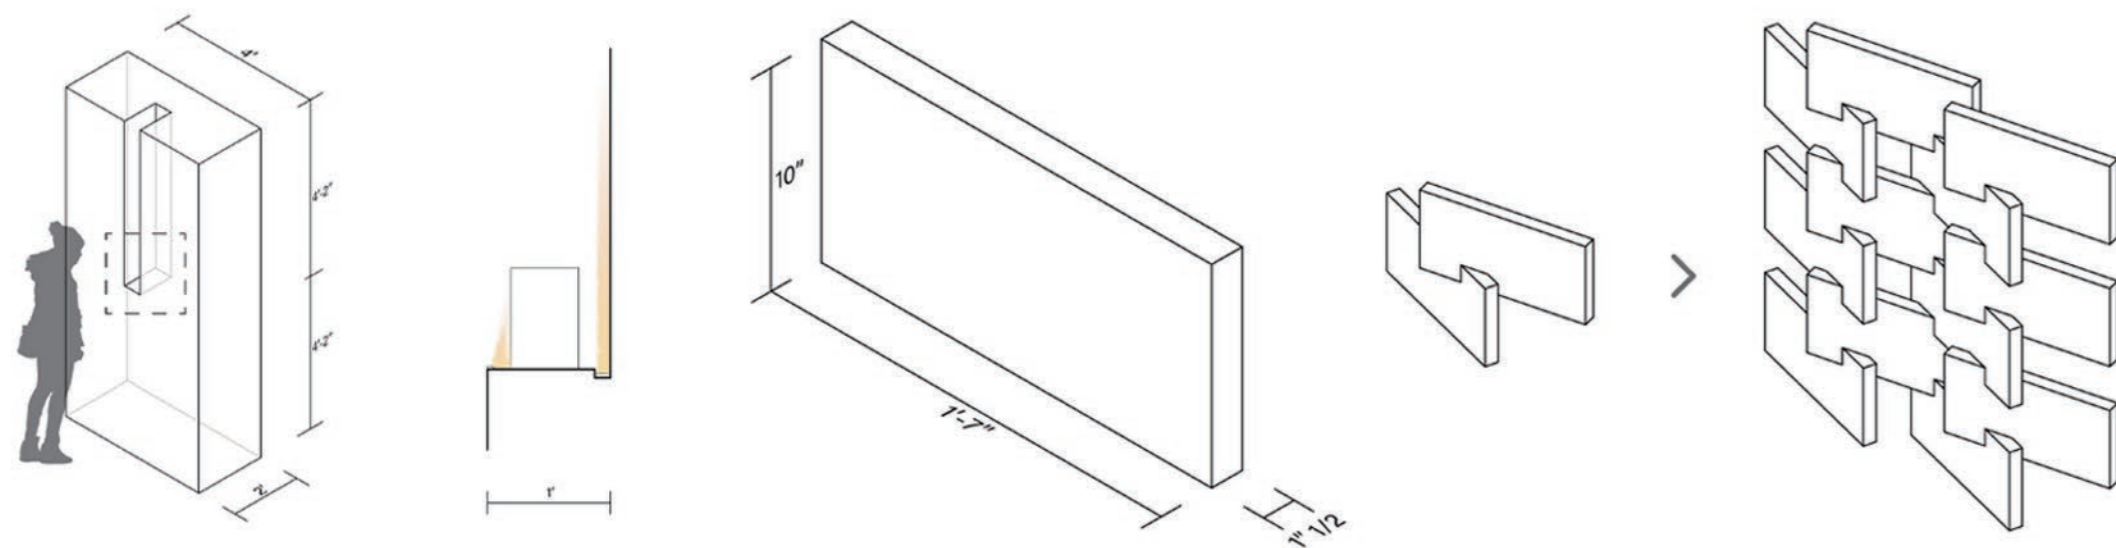

There is a service staff to take visitor's coat and bring them drinks

When visitors enter the space, the first area is the transition rest area, which is used to relax, slow down breathing and heartbeat, and calm down. At the entrance, the waiter helps visitors to remove their ski coats and snowshoes, store them in the storage of the core, and gives them slippers. Because of the sacred of the space, we didn't want visitors to be too comfortable and the furniture not too eye-catching, so we use Barcelona chairs with Luminaire coffee table and Flos floor lamps. The library is closed at night, but the lights remain on, like beacons, in memory of the explorers.

BOOKSHELF DESIGN & MODEL STUDY

The second area is the bookshelf area, where a total of 12 bookshelves are arranged. Each shelf is a monument, made of black granite. Only one book can be placed on each shelf, and the front and back of the book are illuminated. The facade of this area is made of crisscrossed grey bricks, which allow sunlight to reach the interior through small holes, and the crisscrossed brick areas are also diffused by angles and reflections.

MEDITATION AREA

Through the narrow, dark bookshelves, visitors arrive at the most open meditation area. A B&B Italian bench is in the center.

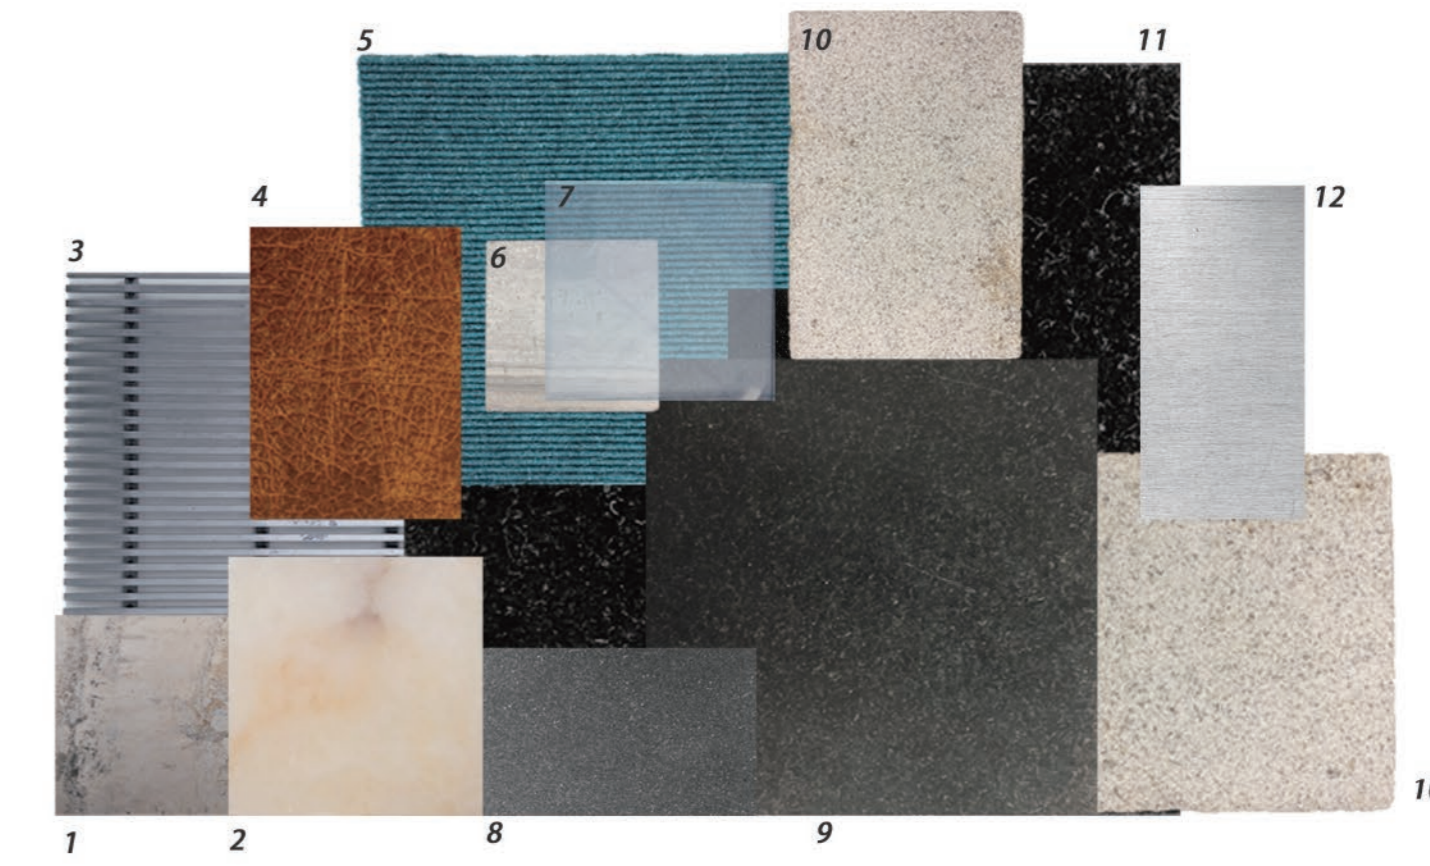

The front is the infinite light, behind is the past.
