

Sacred and Profaned

What is sacred or profaned, in my point of view, depends on our actions, we need a will to transform something profaned into sacred and that is what my lights represent. Pollution can be made through dropping plastic bags everywhere, but we can recycle them and change them into piece of art. These lights remind people that even the normal plastic bags have the potential to become something sacred. We really need to pay more attention to the recycling and reusing so that we won't miss these possible wonderful moments.
